

LOCAL MAN MODEL FOR STATUARY FIGURE

John A. Martin the Original of
"Ironworker" in Group Recently
Placed at Capitol.

JOHN MARTIN.

John A. Martin, electrical employed at the Capitol, is the original of the Ironworker in the group of statuary recently placed on the pediment of the House wing of the Capitol. This fact became known today when a letter of the sculptor, Paul Bartlett, and one of Supt. Elliott Woods of the Capitol were shown to friends by Mr. Martin.

The Ironworker in the group of statuary is an important part of the whole figure, which represents Peace protecting Genius. He is a companion piece to the character in the group which represents agriculture, the sculptor explaining in his address at the unveiling that agriculture and the iron industry form the fundamentals of the country's prosperity.

Was Requested to Pose.

Mr. Martin, who became acquainted with Paul Bartlett some time ago, was asked by the sculptor to pose for this part of the group. Later Elliott Woods, superintendent of the Capitol, wrote the following letter to Mr. Martin:
